Welcome to the semiannual Special Collections Department newsletter. This year we celebrated fifty years of archives at the UTEP Library!

It was a busy and eventful year for the Department. During the 2016/2017 fiscal year we welcomed over 3,600 visitors to Special Collections and tied our record for the most researchers (41) in a day. Additionally, we hosted two major exhibit openings, produced a new department brochure, and participated in the first-ever Border Archives Bazaar in October. We also provided instruction sessions for 28 classes, conducted 53 tours for a total of 600 people, and answered 2,198 reference questions.

Online resources were also heavily used. Over 16,450 images were viewed via the Special Collections image database and 10,149 oral histories were downloaded from Digital Commons.

This year was notable as we were able to meet and work with many of our archival colleagues in the region through the newly-revived Border Regional Archives Group. UTEP SpC staff were also able to tour New Mexico State University’s Archives and Special Collections Department in August.

Sadly, we lost several Special Collections Department friends and donors this year: Sam Moore, Nancy Hamilton, Dr. Haskell Monroe, Dr. John Haddox, and Paul Danigellis. We are very thankful for their generosity over the years. They will be missed.

Upcoming events for 2018 include: the Carl Hertzog Award for Excellence in Book Design in February, a collaborative map exhibit with UT-Austin’s Benson Latin American Collection in the spring, and a Preservation Month event in May. A 2018 Special Collections calendar will be mailed out later this month.

Very best wishes for a joyous and safe holiday season y un feliz y próspero año nuevo!

Year in Review

Special Collections 50th Anniversary

September 2017 marked the fiftieth anniversary of the original Archives Department at the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) Library. To celebrate this anniversary, the Special Collections Department hosted an opening reception for its exhibit, Exploring the Document Mineshaft: Fifty Years of Archives at the UTEP Library, on September 22, 2017. Approximately 100 people attended this event in Special Collections, including UTEP president Dr. Diana Natalicio and family members of UTEP’s first archivist, Leon C. Metz. Guests enjoyed food, drinks, and live music by the Deming Fusiliers during the fiftieth anniversary celebration.

In addition to the exhibit, the Department created a short documentary about Special Collections’ history and current activities. It is available to view on the Library’s YouTube channel at: https://youtu.be/goN4GDPGqyQ. Special thanks to Dr. Diana Natalicio, Dr. Yolanda Chávez Leyva, Robert Stakes, and Claudia Rivers for participating in this project.
This July marked the one hundredth anniversary of the arrival of the American Expeditionary Force in Europe. To commemorate this event, the Special Collections Department created an exhibit, Over Here, Over There: El Paso and El Pasoans during WWI, to recount El Pasoans’ war experiences.

Located in the UTEP Library’s Third Floor Gallery, the exhibit features photographs, documents, and artifacts from Special Collections and the UTEP Centennial Museum. The Special Collections Department also has a complementary display of rare WWI books in its S.L.A. Marshall Military History Room.

Over sixty people attended the opening reception on July 28, 2017 including six family members of WWI soldier José Manuel Escajeda of El Paso. Other descendants of people featured in the exhibit that attended the opening were Kurt Goetting, whose parents appear in the exhibit, and Nancy Wilson and her granddaughter.

The exhibit was featured on KTSN’s evening news and in UTEP’s student newspaper, The Prospector. It is also included in the Texas WWI Centennial Commission’s online list of events.

The exhibit will be available to view through February 2018.

On July 17 Steve Siwinski from the Texas State Archives and Library Commission and Sara Ortiz from the Texas Library Association visited Special Collections as part of the Powered Libraries West Texas Road Trip program. This program highlights how libraries and archives empower our local communities. In addition to Special Collections, the Powered Libraries program visited the El Paso Public Library to learn about the “Sow/Grow/ReapEat” program and the Ysleta del Sur Tribal Empowerment Library.

While at UTEP Steve and Sara viewed historical photographs and interviewed archivists Claudia Rivers, Abbie Weiser, and David Flores about preservation and access. These interviews were made into a short video about SpC and the Casasola photo identification project. As of December, the video has been viewed over 4,100 times on the Powered Libraries’ Facebook page. The video is available to view at: https://www.facebook.com/poweredlibraries/.

In late October SpC staff set up two altars for Día de los Muertos. One altar was in honor of Dr. John Haddox, a longtime UTEP philosophy professor. The other altar was dedicated to Rius (Eduardo Humberto del Río García), a famous Mexican political cartoonist. This altar was located next to a display of his works in the Latino Comics in the UTEP Library exhibit on the second floor of the Library.

This year there were memorial displays in the Library for Dr. Haddox, writer and historian Nancy Hamilton, Sam Moore, and former UTEP president Dr. Haskell Monroe.

The Border Archives Bazaar

On October 14, 2017 over 180 people attended the first-ever Border Archives Bazaar at the New Mexico Farm and Ranch Heritage Museum in Las Cruces, New Mexico. Organized by the Border Regional Archives Group (BRAG), an informal organization of archivists, librarians, and museum curators in the Las Cruces – Ciudad Juárez – El Paso borderlands, the Bazaar featured documents, photographs, rare books, and artifacts from the collections of 16 local archives, museums, and libraries.

During the Bazaar archivists, curators, and historians presented information about various historical and archival topics. Attendees were able to view and handle archival materials while learning about local history, preservation, digitization, and archives at each institution’s table.

The Bazaar was covered in the local news and made the front page of the Las Cruces Sun-News. Based on the success of this event, BRAG hopes to hold another bazaar in October 2018.

Volunteers and Interns

Interns Desiree Campos and Sara Larissi Vega completed their summer internships in late August. Desiree worked on the José Antonio Burciaga collection and the Arturo Islas collection, while Sara worked on the Mario García papers.

Volunteer Nancy Wilson completed inventorying the Lena Butchovsky postcard collection and the Mary Sarber collection. She is currently working on an inventory of the Haskell Monroe postcard collection.

Cindy Milazzo, another volunteer, completed inventories of the Becky Hendrick papers and the Willie Ray Parish papers. She is now working on an inventory of the Duffy Stanley collection which contains materials about historic preservation.

Volunteer Bill Key worked on the Joseph Friedkin papers. Bill also lectured at UTEP about the history and importance of mules and about the El Paso Natural Gas Company.

Longtime volunteer Eva Ross continued her work with the vertical files and gave tours of Special Collections to many visitors. Eva also set up a memorial display for Dr. John Haddox on the third floor of the UTEP Library in late October for Día de los Muertos.

We are very grateful for the efforts of our wonderful volunteers!
